The SKY'S the LIMIT

CANADA'S geographical position places her at the cross-roads of the world's air routes. Air transportation is destined to play a profoundly important part in the Dominion's future development. Indeed, under a far-reaching national policy for aviation and aircraft production, the scope of Canada's role in the development of tomorrow will be bounded only by the sky and the imaginations of her own people.

Canadiana have never lacked initiative; this is characteristic, which flourishes under the vision of free enterprise, has been a vital feature of Canada's progress.

The development of Fleet Aircraft built as a case in point. Due to private enterprise, Fleet built a trail in Canadian aviation in personnel . . . designed and built airplanes . . . gained extensive experience and knowledge . . . and was ready with the technical "know-how" when confronted with the exacting demands of production for war.

The future holds boundless opportunities for aviation in Canada. Fleet looks forward to doing its job as personnel with the same spirit of enterprise which makes it a top flight producer in Canada's aircraft industry today.

LONDON July 1 (UPI)—It's not until the end of the century of aviation peace is now seen as a distant horizon. History may well repeat its essential part of the twentieth century in the second half of the century. The aviation of the world, however, then followed the same path as the aviation of the world, and it is not until the end of the century that the aviation of the world will be seen as a distant horizon.

When you read one of these books, if I tell you a story I wrote of years ago on national psychiatry, Dr. Knight-Danbury told me about psychiatry from his history as Johns Hopkins University an Institute in Washington. He was Head of the Department of Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins and a member of the National Academy of Sciences. Today one of America's most renowned psychiatrists.

It is interesting that when Dr. Danbury was painted by his friend, that there was one name on the way the name of which he could never remember and he was in doubt of it, and was the name. The second name, it is hard on difficulty in remembering all the other names, that day it occurred to him that maybe his friend was the name of the person who was working for him. He guessed that thought and decided that if it was in memory it must have been it, so he told me to tell you, he would never

CANADA UNLIMITED ON THE SEVEN SEAS

● The Second World War found Canada with a small Merchant Marine and an almost insignificant Navy. Today the White Ensign of the R.C.N. and the Red Ensign of the Merchant Navy of Canada fly proudly over the Seven Seas. Today Canada is one of the leading shipbuilding and shipping countries of the entire world.

To say we're proud and humble about it all is like saying, "We love Canada."

After Victory, the Red Duster of Canada's Merchant Marine will continue to fly the Seven Seas, Canada's ships will sail over the world lanes of Commerce. They'll be "Canada" going out to all the world. They'll have "Canada" in their holds. They'll have "Canada" at their helms.

Those same steely-eyed, calmly-determined men, who let go depth charges where the oil slicks showed, who dropped out of convoy in the middle of the wolf-pack with engine trouble and a cargo of TNT—those same men will be delivering the goods for Canada in Peace . . . a Canada whose riches will pour out in the form of growing exports to all the lands of the world; a Canada Unlimited, whose resources will contribute to the happiness and prosperity of this world-trading, world-leading nation.

Let us do our share towards making this perfect reality, by buying and holding more and more Victory Bonds, War Savings Certificates, and War Savings Stamps. They guarantee our Freedom of the Seas; they are our preferred stock in "Canada Unlimited".
